The buds unfold more brightly, till no more1 Or frost or shower or change of seasons mars The freshness of their amaranthine leaves. The lion now forgets to thirst for blood: There might you see him sporting in the sun Beside the dreadless kid; his claws are sheathed, His teeth are harmless, custom s force has made His nature as the nature of a lamb. Like passion s fruit, the nightshade s tempting bane Poisons no more the pleasure it bestows. All bitterness is past; the cup of joy Unmingled mantles to the goblet s brim, And courts the thirsty lips it fled before. But chief, ambiguous man, --he that can know More misery, and dream more joy, than all; Whose keen...

Totally one of the better pdf I have at any time read through. It really is simplified but shocks within the 50 % from the ebook. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.
