V4 2008g OCLC Number: (OCoLC)318812381 Subject: Families of military personnel -- Services for -- United States. Excerpt: . . . 11 profit Brain Injury Services, Inc. , was purely by accident, without any referral from our VA hospital. SUGGESTED IMPROVEMENT IN CARE FOR TBI AFFLICTED VETERANS AND THEIR CAREGIVERS While the Veterans Administration creates the infrastructure to deal with long term nature of proper care and therapy for brain injured veterans, there are simple changes that could be easily implemented in the near term that can be immensely helpful to families. A wiring diagram detailing the responsibilities of the different VA team members in the various medical departments that delineates their respective roles in rehabilitation, therapy and medical care would be extremely helpful. One source document with all of the team members phone numbers and the various departmental extensions should be provided to each family. A fistful of business cards does not suffice when families are overwhelmed with day to day recovery, therapeutic, medical, and emotional issues. A flow chart should be created that allows a family to track where to initiate the process for appointments, referrals, access to fee for outside medical therapy service, financial, insurance and legal assistance. If and when proper case management becomes a reality at the VA, family members should be relieved of the responsibility for locating and initiating care. However, until true case managers are in place, a flow chart is an imperative. The VA must research, have a clear understanding of, and then communicate to family members caregivers what outside services TRICARE and or the VAs fee-for-service program will or will not cover for...
