MOURNING FOR PAP: A STORY OF A SYRIAN-JEWISH FAMILY IN MEXICO

Floricanto Press. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 240 pages. Dimensions: 8.3in. x 5.5in. x 0.6in. Using the death of the father as a point of departure, the novel is divided into ten chapters, a structure that is particularly effective because the chapters correspond to the ten days that begin on the Jewish New Year and end on the Day of Pardon. . . Thus the mythic time of a millenarian religion such as Judaism is strategically juxtaposed to the recapturing of a family's memory that is both contemporary and unmistakably Mexican. . . The dialogues are tinged with Jewish humor -Jorge Schwartz Each character lives simultaneously within three cultures -Jewish, Syrian, and Mexican-in a hybrid narration that produces fascinating mixtures -Luca Guerra The representation of a state of mind throughout the novel is magnificent, particularly since he dares to portray a personal story as it pertains to both a collective consciousness and to the alienation that is caused by death. . . The blend of comedy and tragedy is maintained throughout the novel, in the best Jewish tradition, as established by Fernando de Rojas. I certainly enjoy the interweaving of languages and linguistic varieties. It is a pleasure to see such linguistic complexity sustained throughout the entire novel, without ever faltering. -Jos Kozier Regardless of their origin, the family values, as well as the customs and rituals with which each human group constructs an identity continue to be present and valid. It is this phenomenon that bestows the greatest transcendence to this text. -Ana Portnoy Grumberg The grandson of Sephardic Jews who immigrated to Mexico City from Turkey and Syria, Professor of Spanish at UC-Irvine, Jacobo Sefam is Associate Editor of the academic journal Mexican StudiesEstudios Mexicanos, and has published several books and articles on Latin American poetry. Kay (Kayla) S....
